Allendale Elementary School Bus Driver Charged with Assault on Student

Prosecutor Kym L. Worthy has charged bus driver Patrick Brennan, 63, of Lincoln Park, with two misdemeanors charges, Child Abuse Fourth Degree (one-year or probation for up to five years), and Assault and Battery (93 Days).

On January 19, 2016 at approximately 4:00 p.m., Brennan was transporting Allendale Elementary School children on a school bus when a group of children began yelling and misbehaving. It is alleged that the driver became angry, got some ice from outside and threw it in the bus at the children. It hit an 11-year-old girl in the head causing her to bleed. The victim was not one of the children who were misbehaving on the bus. The Melvindale police officers were dispatched to the child's home at approximately 4:15 p.m. and they observed a laceration above her left eye and blood on her scarf. Her injury was treated at home. Investigation of the incident led the police to the arrest of bus driver on the same day.

The defendant was arraigned this afternoon before Judge John Courtright in 24th District Court in Allen Park and he received a $5,000/10% bond. His pre-trial hearing is scheduled for February 1, 2016 at 9:00 a.m.

Friday, January 22, 2016

Maryanne Godboldo - The Michigan Court of Appeals (MCA) has reversed the dismissal in the case and has remanded the matter back to the district court. The MCA found that the order to take defendant's child was valid and sufficient evidence supported the charges. The district court thus erred in refusing to grant a bind-over on all the charges. A copy of the opinion is attached. No new date has been scheduled in 36th District Court at this time.
